Art: Charles LaBelle, Hong Kong

Quintessentially Members are invited to the opening of Charles LaBelle's exhibition of new drawings from a series entitled Buildings Entered on Friday 28th May from 6pm to 9pm at The Hong Kong Museum of Medical Sciences on Caine Road.

Focusing specifically on buildings where the body is cared for, the drawings are careful renderings of places Charles has visited over the past thirteen years. Drawn in pencil on individual pages from French philosopher Jean-Luc Nancy's book, "Corpus," the drawings literally form a "body of work" that is a meditation on the body.

The Hong Kong Museum of Medical Sciences (HKMMS) is housed in a declared monument, the Old Pathological Institute and is probably one of the most intact and original of Hong Kong's Declared Monuments and heritage buildings.
